Learn Together Lowcountry Drop-off Policy

1. Students in paid middle school or high school level classes may be dropped off or drive themselves. Parents must be accessible at given phone numbers during co-op hours. If discipline issues arise, the co-op may require a parent to be on the premises during class hours and will follow disciplinary procedures laid out in the handbook.
2. Students are to be dismissed from campus following their last registered class. Only approved students in our volunteer program will be allowed to remain on campus long than dismissal of their final class of the day. Failure to exit campus on time may result in parent presence being required or dismissal from the program.
3. Students may not be on campus without a parent until all required forms are completed and turned in including campus liability release, medical form, and code of conduct form.
4. Students may not be on campus without a parent until a parent has a short phone or in-person orientation with the director.
5. Students must read and follow all guidelines laid out in the handbook.
6. Parents are asked to come in with the student on the first day of the semester to ensure everything has been cleared for the student to be without a parent on campus.
7. Parents are required to volunteer one day out of the semester from 8:45 am to 12:00 noon unless a waiver is given for special circumstances. Students may not be on campus without a parent until this volunteer day is scheduled with the assistant director.

I understand that drop-off privileges are a luxury not offered by most homeschool programs, especially not without fees. I understand that these guidelines are for the safety of my student and families on campus. I commit to following all guidelines in the handbook and in the drop-off policy.
